Operations of the Seneral Bureaus.—The organization of the Health Department into several bureaus, as provided by the charter, each bureau having distinct and well-defined duties, with a competent executive officer at its head, has given great efficiency to the service. The division of labor among these bureaus is such as to render them entirely distinct in all their operations; but when combined, they represent every branch of work undertaken by this department. The reports of the chief officers of the bureaus give at length and in detail the amount and kind of work performed by each, with such information and sing gestions in regard to the subjects under consideration as these others have decined important. (see Appendix.) In this report the Board can present but an outline of the duties of the several bureaus and a briof summary of their labors during the past year.

Bureau of Sanitary Inspection.—The work of this bureau comprises the inspection of nutsances, the care of contagious diseases, the regulation of tenement houses, cleansing and disinfection. Ac. Its chief officer, the Cuy Sanitary Inspector, has under his direction a corps of health inspectors and assistant health inspectors, who are selected for their special qualifications for the duries which they are required to perform. The Disinfecting Corps is also under his charge and direction.

The amount and kind of service performed by this bureau during the past year is given in the following table:—

In reply to the question, why cannot the monthly reports be issued more promptly? the Catel of the Eureau of Statistics desires to say:—It is chiefly owing to the great extent of our country, stretching as it does from Eastport to Alaska, and from Fembina to Brownsville, and to the fact that returns from the more distant as well as the larger custom houses do not reach Washington until from forty-five to fifty days after the termination of each month, For instance, the returns for the month of March, which appear in monthly No. 9, now in press, were not received from Alaska, Corpus Christi and New York, until the 15th of May, while the largest return for the quarter ended March 31, also published in No. 2, did not reach the bureau till May 25, it is, therefore, impossible to publish the monthly each of the delay to forwarding the monthly returns from the distant ports arises from the great extent of the he delay to forwarding the monthly returns from the delay to forwarding the monthly returns from the distant ports arises from the great extent of the customs districts. Some of these are as large as all England, and, as in the district of El Paso del Norte, Texas, and New Mexico, some of the small ports are from 30 to 700 miles from the principal office of the district, requiring, in consequence of imited postal facilities, several weeks' time to receive the returns from the outposts. Occasionally a mail is lost.

As more than one-half of the foreign trade of the country is transacted at the port of New York, great delay occurs in making statistical, returns. In this connection it may be mentioned that, in England, statistical cierks, holding their offices for life, have large experience, while in this country the tenure of office is not so assured.

As the returns from the various customs districts are received they undergo a careful examination, the errors and discrepancies are ascertained, and after correspondence, corrected. Not a moment's unnecessary delay occurs in the examination of computation.

after correspondence, corrected. Not a moment's unnecessary delay occurs in the examination or compilation.

Owing to the press of business at the Public Printing Office, it usually takes at least two weeks to get the monthly printed, containing, as it does, much rule and figure work.

It is certainly desirable that the monthly reports be issued as promptly as is consistent with accuracy. Each successive head of the bureau magiven the subject thoughtful consideration. It has been suggested that the practice in England be adopted, viz.:—That duplicates of manifests and other papers be sent to the bureau and compiled by statistical cierks, who have had more experience than those usually employed in custom houses. This plan may be carried into effect, although there are difficulties to be overcome.

But, admitting that the English Monthly Reports of Trade and Navigation are issued at an earlier period than ours, the adverse comparison here cases. It is submitted whether the unavidable delay is not compensated for by the superior accuracy of statements published by the United States Bureau of Statements published by the United States.

FISH'S FAVORITES.

Departure of the Ninth Regiment for Boston-Prayertal Preparations.

The Erie-pressible Fisk, of the Ninth regiment when he determines upon a thing, can never be swerved from his purpose. Having decided that his regiment should hold a camp meeting in the "holy hub" or the Union, and failing to secure the generous assistance of the descendants of Plymouth Rock to welcome him with possiss of praise, he de-termined to go there at all hazards. Accordingly Prince Jim issued the necessary orders to the boys of the Ninth, and yesterday afternoon, at haif-past three o'clock sharp, they were on hand at their armory. Fisk reviewed them, and dispensing with religious exercises, pro tem., he mounted his charger, the clarion sounded the advance, and, with the gray-clad highth regiment in the van as a guard of nonor. Fisk and his favorites took up their burdens and marched away. The route was along West Twenty-third street to Broadway, down Broadway to Warren street and along Warren street to the pier of the Newport steamer, upon which they embarked. As the natty Ninth marched down Broadway, preceded by their superb band and drum corps, the praise of our citizens were lavishly bestowed, and many experts were heard to remark that no regiment had for months presented a finer appearance in dress or more military precision in its movements. their armory. Fisk reviewed them, and dispens
